"A Land of Dreams Prosperous, when all in it, join their hands together".

Independent India at 75 Self Reliance with Integrity.

On 15th August 1947, our country India became independent from the slavery of British. This year we are celebrating the 75th Independence day of India.

After attaining Independence, India started small steps on the path of development in every field. In the last few years, India has made strides towards making India a self-reliant India with the aim of eliminating its dependence of foreign countries in every field. Now every day India is taking small but strong steps towards becoming self-reliant.

Being self-reliant is the dream of every individual, society and nation. Our former prime minister Mrs. Indira Gandhi has said "A nation's strength ultimately consists in what it can do on its own, and not in what it can borrow from others."

Even since the attainment of independence, the dream of self-sufficiency began to grow in the heart of India.

As we know our prime minister has already launched the "Atmanirbhar Bharat" but in this thing, I want add one more word that is integrity, which means honesty. we have to make reliant but an honest way to make ourselves Atmanirbhar.

A community where every one respects each others integrity is ideal society. If we take the example of a recent incident that happens across the world, we are talking about covid-19.

Coronavirus was spread all over the world. every one had to stay indoors for a few days. All routes relation were completely closed. In such situation by taking the help of self-reliance we have provided various facilities in our country it self. So to make a completely self reliant India we should bind us all in the thread of integrity.

Self-reliance to self sufficiency will not ^{only} bring development in every region of the country but will also prove to be milestone in ending India's independence on other countries by solving problems like poverty, starvation and unemployment....
